University Press of Kansas – Fred Woodward

Fred Woodward, Director of University Press of Kansas, presented the University Press of Kansas request for FY 2012 Transfer of Operating Subsidy which reflects the 2% reduction from our FY 2011 subsidy which is how much state funding to the six universities dropped this year. He returns in December 2011 with the Press' annual report.

Jeff Vitter moved, and Keith Pickus seconded the motion, to approve the following transfer of funds:

| | |
|-------|-----------|
| KU | $130,203 |
| KSU | 93,479 |
| WSU | 60,094 |

| FHSU | 16,693 |
| PSU | 16,693 |

Approve Minutes of June 15, 2011

KBOR update

COCAO was reminded that institutional data must be certified by September 30, 2011. FYI - For the certification, a password has to be created on the KBOR website. Please note that as of October 1, 2011 KBOR will assume this data is accurate.

Gary Alexander reviewed the Board Goals for 2011-2012 and issues related to the goals.

A draft model of the alignment of performance agreements will be on the October Board Academic Affairs Standing Committee agenda for initial discussion.

The Council of Chief Academic Officers debriefed regarding its breakfast with the three new regents: Regent Fred Logan, Regent Robba Moran and Regent Kenny Wilk. The Council noted the breakfast discussion underscored the importance of transfer and articulation to the Regents.

Library Consortium Update

April Mason updated COCAO regarding the Library Consortium. There will be no report at this time. Turnovers of the Deans and Directors of Libraries at the universities, along with reduction and uncertainty of Kan-ed and State Library funding, have made it difficult to develop a business plan. They plan to meet during the Fall semester to re-formulate a plan.

Lynette Olson reported on the PSU visit. The Board Academic Affairs Standing Committee and the Fiscal Affairs and Finance Committee met separately with Provost Olson and her staff. A copy of the agenda was distributed.

RE: Request to Combine Department and Name Change

The departments of Curriculum and Instruction, and Special Services and Leadership Studies completed an organizational study during the 2010-11 academic year. Based on broad and extensive input from within and outside the departments the departments requested to combine.

This fall the combined departments have advanced a name, the Department of Teaching and Leadership. Opportunity for input through the departments, college and education unit elicited no challenges. The name was also brought before COED last Friday without questions.

I support and approve the request for combining the two departments and the name of the Department of Teaching and Leadership.

*Approved President's Council

| Area | Summary |
|--|--|
| 1. Program Description and Purpose | The growing US interaction with the REES region, which includes Russia, Ukraine, the Caucasus (Georgia, Azerbaijan, Armenia), Central Asia (primarily Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, and Uzbekistan), and countries of the West Slavic (Poland and the Czech Republic) and South Slavic (former Yugoslavia, Romania, Bulgaria) regions, calls for the preparation of lawyers with active skills in the target language and knowledge of its culture, as well as political and legal traditions. The goal of the JD/MA REES program is to prepare legal specialists who combine training in law with area expertise on Russia, Eastern Europe, and Eurasia. In addition to a greater ability to work with clients from various backgrounds, a joint degree in Law and Russian, East European and Eurasian Studies opens many doors for its recipients, including opportunities in international trade and finance, immigration law, human rights advocacy, government service, and other related fields. |
| 2. Comparable programs in the state/region | Currently, there are no schools in the Great Plains and Mountain regions that offer a joint JD/MA REES program. The only Big 12 School offering a version of the joint JD/MA REES program is the University of Texas at Austin joint program in Law and Russian, East European, and Eurasian Studies. In addition, a number of other schools, including University of Michigan, Stanford University, and Georgetown University, also offer 3-4 year joint degree programs leading to the Juris Doctor and MA in Eurasian, |

|--|--|
| | Russian, and East European Studies. KU JD/MA program, compared to the programs listed above, has been designed to be somewhat broader and more integrative. The requirements for the KU JD/MA program are more rigorous than those in other schools. |
| 3. Source(s) of articulated demand / need for this program (Provide specific information / data) | Demand for this program comes from students themselves. In the last two years CREES has fielded 3-4 inquiries from applicants interested in both REES and law. CREES has recently graduated 3 students who sought law degrees after completing the REES MA program. With the creation of the JD/MA REES program, interested students will experience substantial time and cost savings by applying certain coursework to the requirements of both programs and taking advantage of opportunities provided by both programs, including access to financial aid. The US Dept. of Education Title VI program strongly encourages extension of REES curriculum and funding to students in professional schools. As part of the 2010-2013 CREES grant proposal, CREES Director Clowes proposed to work to create the new JD/MA program, which was duly noted by referees as a positive step. Clowes, Levin, and Gottlieb wrote the proposal in Spring, 2010. The proposal has passed unanimously both the REES faculty and the Law Faculty and Student Assembly in Fall, 2010. The Law faculty has 3 FTE specifically in international law and various other law FTE (e.g. Dickenson) who are involved with study abroad in the REES area. On the Law faculty international specialists Head, Bhala, and Gottlieb will be crucial instructors in this program. CREES has 65 core and affiliated faculty. Among CLAS faculty most closely involved with this program will be Omelicheva (herself a Russian-trained lawyer with first-hand knowledge of the Russian legal system), Herron, A. Tsiovkh, Clowes, Carlson, Levin, Wood, O’Lear, El Hodiri, Six, Ya. Tsiovkh, and Earnhart. As both a 50-year survey and the latest 2-year alumni survey show, most REES graduates enter government service or education, although a small percentage have also gone on to law school. Particularly in view of the sustained demand for a REES/Law double-degree program, it is highly desirable to add this option for professional training. Specific demand for students with a REES MA/JD double degree is shown at the following web sites: Below are examples of international law firms and NGOs dealing with international legal questions. Most of them are posted on the CREES web site http://www.crees.ku.edu/academics/employment/Post_Grad_Jobs.shtml). Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld, L.L.P. | 4. Proposed Curriculum | To receive the JD/MA REES, a student must successfully complete a minimum of 105 credit hours, 81 in the School of Law and 24 in CREES. The School of Law requires a 2.0 grade point average, while the Graduate School requires a 3.0 GPA for all courses counting toward the MA in REES portion of the degree. Requirements for the Law School are as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Students must complete all required first-year courses in law (29 credit hours) during their first year in Law School. • In addition to these course requirements, the School of Law has an upper-class writing requirement, a professional skills course requirement, and a time limit for completion of the degree as listed in the current School of Law Catalog. • In addition to the 37 credit hours of coursework (described above) required of all law students, upper-class students in the joint JD/MA REES program must complete an additional 12 credit hours of coursework consisting of courses in any two of the following areas of concentration: International Trade, International Commerce, Public International Law, Comparative Law, or Environmental Law. Requirements for the MA degree in REES are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • one course of advanced language in one of the REES languages; • three courses for a total of 9 credit hours in the disciplinary grouping of the student’s special interest; • one area course in each of the other four groupings (the five course groups are: literature and arts; history; political science; philosophy and religion; and economics, business, and geography), for a total of 12 hours; • of the 21 credit hours in the MA/JD program will be REES-related international law. These courses may be counted as fulfilling any of the course groups listed below, depending on course content, and • REES 898 and REES 899. REES 898 focuses on research methodologies, resources, and issues. REES 899 is a capstone seminar in which students research, write, and present an original formal research paper on a topic developed in consultation with the faculty, extensively using sources in the target area language. MA/JD students will select a topic for the REES 899 paper that relates to some aspect of Law. Before enrolling in REES 899, students must have completed a total of 22 semester credit hours (three years), or the equivalent, of the target language. |

| 5. Faculty required for this program (Names, FTE for this proposed program) | All of the current CREES faculty and law school faculty can offer courses and teach for this joint degree program. The Law faculty has 3 FTE specifically in international law and various other law FTE (e.g. Dickinson, Mazza) who are involved with study abroad in the REES area. On the Law faculty international specialists Head, Bhala, and Gottlieb will be crucial instructors in this program. Although as an area study center CREES has no faculty of its own, it has 42 (1.0 FTE) core and 22 affiliated faculty who teach in the program. 196 courses are offered in the curriculum across 4 professional schools, 6 interdisciplinary programs, and 12 departments. Among CLAS faculty most closely involved with this program will be Political Science professors Omelicheva (herself a Russian-trained lawyer with first-hand knowledge of the Russian legal system), Rohrschneider, and Herron; Ukrainian Studies professor A. Tsiovkh; Slavic Department professors Clowes, Carlson, Greenberg, Comer, Vassileva-Karagyozova, Six, and Ya. Tsiovkh; History professors Levin and Wood; Geography professor O’Lear, Diener; Philosophy professor De George; Anthropology professors Crawford, Radovanovic, and Dwyer; Sociology professors Andac and Najafizadeh; and Economics professors El Hodiri and Earnhart. Profiles and curriculum vitae are available on the CREES and law school websites. | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

The review was very positive. It will again undergo internal review Fall, 2011, and will include the JD/REES MA program, if the program is approved. The CREES director will be reporting to the US Dept. of Ed. on a biannual basis about the JD/MA REES program, along with all other facets and activities of the Center. | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |

| 11. Additional comments on the utility/necessity of this program. | REES faculty, Law faculty, and REES students have expressed strong enthusiasm for this broadening of KU's offerings.
